

GAUGEMASTER

Enamel Advert Signs

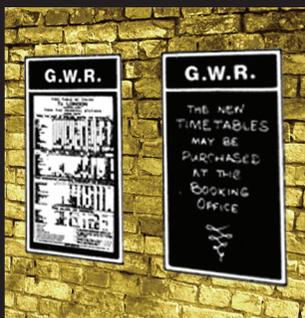

Enamel Advert Signs were once a common sight around UK railways. They were the precursor to the poster boards that we see today, and advertised a wide variety of products. These signs were mounted on station buildings, fences and on platform buildings. This Enamel Advert range from Tiny Signs can be also used all around the layout, and their real-life application was not limited to the railways. they were regularly found on the corners of buildings and in shop window displays.
